James Lankford is a strong conservative and servant leader who is committed to God, Family and the Constitution. After completing two consecutive terms in the U.S. House of Representatives, James is currently serving the remaining two years of retired Senator Tom Coburn's term in the United States Senate.

While remaining passionate about life and traditional family values, James has worked diligently, studying each issue facing our nation and earning the respect of his colleagues for his knowledge on several issues while standing for transparency and accountability in the federal government.

Senator Lankford currently serves on the Committee on Appropriations, Chairman of the Subcommittee on Regulatory Affairs for the Committee on Homeland Security and Governmental Affairs, the Committee on Indian Affairs and the Select Committee on Intelligence in addition to serving as Co-Chairman of the Congressional Prayer Caucus.

James has become a strong voice for fiscal discipline in the federal government while serving in the House and will continue on this path during his time in the Senate looking for more ways to make government more efficient and accountable to the people.

Prior to entering Congress, James served 13 years as the director of the nation's largest Christian youth camp, Falls Creek, and spent a total 22 years in full-time ministry. He has been married to his bride Cindy for over 20 years. Together, they have two wonderful daughters: Hannah and Jordan.
